Risner speaks to Women's Club

By Elizabeth Cowley

Mark Risner, author of Cadillac Desert, spoke at the League of Women Voters 75th Anniversary Luncheon at Rancho Canada on March 17. Mark Risner is an author, lecturer and environmental consultant and has worked with the Natural Resources Defense Council and the Nature Conservancy primarily in the area of water and water law.

Mark Risner's lecture was entitled "Reflections After a Wet Season, Why California Can Still Run Dry". Mr. Risner said that, to quote his niece, his "timing bites" after the recent flooding. Although California has suffered flooding and record rainfall in 1995, Mr. Risner pointed out that California had suffered a drought from 1987-1994, but memory is short and no one is thinking drought right now. Mr. Risner said there is no "typical" California weather as we historically suffer alternate droughts and flooding. Although we just suffered a "100 year flood", Mr. Risner said the people who come up with these standards "do not know what the hell they are talking about" as "100 year floods" often occur with the same decade and certainly within the same century.

Mr. Risner said a true California water supply calamity is very likely due to population, groundwater overdraft, increasing environmental degradation and seismic hazards.

Mr. Risner said that California has not built any new large scale water projects since 1979 although California's population has increased by over 8 million since that time. Mr. Risner does not necessarily endorse new water projects but rather serious steps to limit population growth and immigration. Although he recognizes such measures are not popular due to civil rights concerns, he proposed the question "How many people do you put into a sinking Zodiac (boat) before you all drown?"

Mr. Risner said the issue of groundwater overdraft has been recognized and debated for 40 years although nothing has been done. Mr. Risner said when "Sea water starts coming out of the tap we will be forced to do something."

Los Angeles is another contributing factor to California's perilous water future. Mr. Risner said that since Los Angeles survives on borrowed water with an ever-increasing population, they will have to do something as they are losing the right to divert as much water from the Colorado River and since they have "agreed" to give back some water to Mono Lake.

The degree to which California has depleted its natural resources will increasingly restrict the amount of divertable water. Mr. Risner said the Sacramento Delta area used to have 21 in shoe canneries with spring run salmon counts over 600,000 million. Currently there are no canneries and the 1994 spring run salmon count was down to 22,000. Several other fisheries are in danger, including our own steelhead. As these fisheries have been depleted so dramatically, federal environmental laws such as the Endangered Spe-

Water district looks further at dam earthquake hazards

Elizabeth Cowley

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) held their monthly meeting on March 20 at the Monterey City Council Chambers. In addition to its regular business, the MPWMD received a report from the MARK Group entitled "Geotechnical and Engineering Studies for the New Los Padres Water Supply Project".

The Cachagua fault runs one-third of a mile from the Proposed New Los Padres Dam (PNLPD) Project site. The MARK consultants have determined that this fault is inactive as it has not moved for 85,000-213,500 years. The Geotechnical engineers were able to make this determination as the terrace deposits on either side of the Carmel River are parallel. Had the Cachagua fault moved since these deposits were made, between 85,000-213,500 years ago, the deposits would not be parallel. The Palo Colorado and the San Andreas faults were considered however the Turlarcitos fault, about 2.5 miles north of the PNLPD site is the most critical fault. The largest credible earthquake along the Turlarcitos fault was determined to be 6.5 on the Richter Scale and from this information the MARK Group determined the maximum peak ground acceleration and refined the design of the dam to withstand this potential seismic event.

After extensive reconnaissance of the PNLPD site, the MARK Group has determined that there is enough native material for concrete aggregate upstream of the PNLPD site. This will eliminate the need to import concrete aggregate however, large truck traffic will not be significantly reduced on Cachagua Road as the concrete itself, all other construction materials, and personnel will still need to travel this road. The final design and additional studies will be conducted in 1996 and 1997 if the voters approve the bond issue to pay for the dam in an election scheduled for November 7, 1995. The most recent cost estimate for the PNLPD is $81.7 million. Director Sam Karas asked the consultants if he could assure his constituents that if they voted for the Dam in November the final cost would be $81.7 million. The answer was "no" as the estimate does not include underwriting costs, construction of access roads, mitigation required under the

A PLACE IN THE SUN Virginia Park

Damp and determined, with the support of his spouse Sandy, Stew Clough has spent the last wet three weeks working tirelessly assisting the flood survivors in the Village and Upper Carmel Valley.

"Carmel Valley has been really good to Sandy and me. We have raised our family here. Now we can afford to spend the time giving back to the community at least a small part of the support and care others have given us," states Stew.

He expressed his satisfaction at the willingness of local people to pull together and make intelligent decisions about solving the clean-up and reconstruction challenges left in the wake of the flood. "We are ahead of most areas in our recovery because of all the volunteers who are donating their equipment and services cleaning up the area so Terry Bishop and his crew can rebuild the roads." Stew is also assisting in the Cachagua area clean-up activities.

The image of Stew standing in the rain wearing his cowboy hat, coordinating the recovery activities and Sandy with her warm gentle smile, providing support services, is indelibly imprinted in the memory of survivors and those who came to help. Thank you Stew and Sandy for myself, and I am sure, for all whose lives you have touched.

Other local groups providing donations to recovery activities include Carmel Valley Disposal who provided trash containers, Bethlehem Lutheran Church of Monterey sent much needed rubber boots and the St. Philips Lutheran Church of Carmel Valley sent contributions to the clean-up fund.

The Carmel Valley Village Flood Relief is still requesting funds and non-perishable items that can be dropped off at Rosie's Cracker Barrel. Checks should be made payable to Carmel Valley Village Flood Relief (CVVFR) and sent to P.O. Box 149, Carmel Valley, CA 93924. KAZU is holding a flood relief benefit on April 2nd starting at 7:00 P.M. at Doc Ricketts in Monterey. Part of the funds raised will go to CVVFR. Commemorative T-shirts are available at the Running Iron with the proceeds going to the flood relief fund courtesy of John Macy. The waters may have receded, but not our legendary community spirit.

CORRECTION

It was reported that at the February meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board of Directors a residential water distribution system permit was granted to Carmel Greens. Chair of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, Fran Farina, said that the Board granted Carmel Greens an "agricultural, non-potable, water distribution permit", not a residential water distribution permit.

Chamber Report

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors held their monthly meeting on Thursday, March 16 at the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station.

Chamber President, Burney Threadgill, reported that their luncheon featuring inspirational speaker Stan Evans on March 16 was a success. Director Randy Randazzo suggested and the Board agreed to hold a flea market fund-raiser later in the year. Director Marjorie Loughridge announced that there will be a mixer on April 18 at the Bernardus Winery and that a luncheon at the Barnyard with the Carmel Business Association is in the works for June or July.

Last year KCBA Fox produced a 30 minute promotional special entitled "Monterey County, Paradise on the Bay." This program reached an estimated 5 million households and 5,516 people called an 800 number for an informational package. Media Management Associates in Carmel conducted a study surveying 100 of the 5,516 who responded to determine the effectiveness of this method of promotion. They found that 61% of those who requested information did indeed visit the Monterey Peninsula and that 26% came as a result of the show and information packet. Extrapolating from the results of the 100 questioned, if 61% of the 5,516 respondents did indeed visit the Monterey Peninsula, they would have brought over $2 million in tourist dollars in 1994. KCBA Fox intends to produce a similar program this year and the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce will again be a sponsor.

Alex Giannuzzi and Noel Galmes make each day a culinary celebration at Bon Appetit.

A family affair of wonderful food

By Virginia Parke

"This area reminds me of where I grew up. The country life is very important in Europe," explains Noel Galmes. He and partners Alex and Sheryl Giannuzzi have been part of Carmel Valley since opening the Bon Appetit restaurant specializing in regional European cuisine and gourmet pizza in October 1993.

"I grew up in Cannes," Noel explains. My father owned and operated a fishing boat. My Sicilian mother would sell the day's fresh catch at the open market. I have two older sisters who still live in France. I would listen to the stories about California when I was young, from the sailors stationed near by and dream about living there. Fortunately for me I have an uncle who has lived in this area since 1945."

"During the time I was growing up the tourist trade was just beginning to expand. It exposed me to many cultures which made me want to travel. I have always been very adventurous. As a child I loved to hike and ski. I would explore the Alps as well as sail the Mediterranean. Unlike here, the water is warm and always inviting."

"When I was older, I started riding motorcycles and skydiving. Now that I have a family, I just ride the motorcycle. It is a passion with me. Cannes can sometimes surprise you. I remember when it snowed in the town. Cross country skiers were out skiing on the snow covered beaches," Noel reminisces.

"My mate Connie, is a nurse at Community Hospital. We have a two and half year old son named Michael. A good French name," he smiles. "When you have a family it changes your attitude about what is important."

Noel graduated from the Nice Culinary School then spent four years in the French Navy exploring the world. "Military service is mandatory," he explained. "After that I returned and went to work in local restaurants. This is a profession where you can always find work no matter where you are. I was fortunate to work with one of the best chefs in Europe at the Royal Gray Hotel before coming to California in 1986."

"It was during this time I met Alex. We became roommates. We both got married. We continued our friendship and decided to open our own place. Sheryl joined us and she is our indispensable dining room manager."

"I started working in the restaurant business when I was 15," Sheryl states, as she puts a fresh pink rose in silver vases. "I like working with people, especially the people here. They are relaxed and take the time to enjoy dining."

Alex Giannuzzi was born near Florence, Italy. He graduated from the Culinary School of Florence. After working in the restaurant of the Grand Hotel in Florence, he decided to open up his own business on the Italian Riviera. "I left because I wanted to travel, to have international experiences. I had a friend who had retired here, so here I am. I was raised on a farm. Cooking has been my passion since I was 10."

Noel, Alex and Sheryl share in their appreciation of Carmel Valley. They expressed their shared sentiments: "We own our business and we are thankful for our customers' support. We enjoy contributing to this community."

"I'm basically a happy fella. I would like to tell everyone to enjoy life and to eat out more often," Noel laughingly concludes.

Mid-Valley Fire District Meeting

ELIZABETH COWLEY

The Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District (MCVFPD) Board of Directors held their monthly meeting on March 22.

Volunteer firefighter Raul Mayorga is retiring after 9 years of service. The Board unanimously approved a disbursement from the Volunteer Severance Pay Plan for Mr. Mayorga.

The Board adopted a draft budget for fiscal year 1995-96 for the approximately $8,700 the MCVFPD receives from Measure A funding. $6,000 will be allocated to the "sleeper program" which allows the MCVFPD to ensure that at least 2 people are at the station to respond to emergencies requiring both an ambulance and a fire truck. The "sleeper program" provides funding to ensure that the station will not be short staffed due to sick leave, vacation time, and other leave time. $2,000 will be allocated to the MCVFPD CPR program which has 7 instructors and teaches over 250 adults and 150 children CPR. Federal law required firefighters to be screened for Tuberculosis thus $600 will be allocated for this infectious disease screening.

The Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station and its rescue vehicles suffered damage due to the storm and storm rescue activities in the amount of $5,000.

Chief Carmichael presented a brief report of MCVFPD activities during the March flooding. The MCVFPD evacuated over 350 people and placed 9,000 sandbags within a 30 hour period. Approximately 110 homes suffered flood damage within the district. Chief Carmichael reported that in the March flood event there was sufficient warning to evacuate people safely. On Friday March 10 at 5:45 am, Chief Carmichael

When the meeting concluded, the river was again rising and Chief Carmichael and his staff were on their way to continue sandbagging along Schulte Road to try and protect the properties there who had already suffered serious erosion. The Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District Board of Directors hold its meeting every 4th Wednesday at 7:30 at the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station. received a call alerting him of a flood warning, although at that time the river was only about 1 foot deep at the Schulte Bridge, he proceeded with evacuations and sandbagging.

Director Candy Meyers stated that it is important for the Chamber to make it clear to the press and potential visitors that the Carmel Valley has not washed away in the floods, the water is safe to drink and visitors can reach the Carmel Valley without difficulty. Several Valley hotels and businesses have had several cancellations and inquiries from people under the impression that Carmel Valley is a flooded wasteland.

The Monterey County Travel and Tourism Alliance intends to open a manned tourist information center at the Crossroads. This center will provide tourists with information about businesses, restaurants and areas of interest throughout Monterey County.

The Chamber decided to donate $100 to support Courtney Brockman in her bid for Salinas Rodeo Queen. Ms. Brockman will be representing Carmel Valley Ranchers Days of which she was the Queen in 1993 and 1994.

The Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors meets every third Thursday at 5:30 at the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Department Community Room. The meeting is open to the public.

VALLEY VOICE

Fran Franina

I find it rather fascinating that the same phenomenon can evoke such diametrically opposed reactions. Take rain, for example.

Only a few years ago, we cherished every drop that fell during the drought. We talked about the quantity of rainfall we received, whether the river was flowing to the ocean, what was the condition of the aquifers. We were effusive in our praise of its presence. After several days of steady downpours, we wouldn't dream of complaining that we'd rather see the sun and be playing golf or tennis. No, that wouldn't be appropriate. We were truly grateful for each storm that shared its water with us.

Now I find myself cringing with each new storm. Is the roof going to start leaking? Will the wind knock a tree down and damage the house? Are we going to be evacuated again? It's the same event, yet the reaction is so different.

I continue to call around to friends in the valley. No one has escaped the river's ravages unscathed. Were you evacuated? Was your house flooded? Have your riverbanks eroded? Virtually everyone says "yes" to at least one of the questions.

Stress levels are rising as each day passes. How much more of this do we have to take? The rain is pounding down. No leaks yet. A huge wind gust, probable 50 miles per hour, blows up the valley. The trees hold. The river rises higher, flows faster, and begins to rage again. It's back up to nine feet. Should I get packed? No, just get the flashlight out in case we lose power.

I'm getting good at packing in a hurry. I used to say I could be packed in an hour for a trip overseas. Now I pack in less than ten minutes.

It is amazing to see how rapidly the river can change. As the water recedes, it seems relatively harmless as it flows to the ocean. Hard to believe this is the same river that sent a wall of water downstream during January. I can't get that image out of my mind. It was truly frightening. Yet, the river showed another face in March. This time it spread out wider, searching for long-forgotten streambeds that it used to inhabit.

The sun came out. Is it going to last? No. Within a few minutes, the rain begins again. Listen to the river. How does it sound?

I find that we now talk about the weather report. Is a new front coming in? How much rain is expected? How long will it last? Have they posted an advisory? People go out for short periods of time. They're staying closer to home. We're all talking to each other with great frequency. This is where our strength comes from. We rely on each other. We work together. We must if we're going to get through this.

Too bad about the base closings. The chickens are finally coming home to roost. The U.S. Government, a wonderful experiment in a new form of government, had just too much bad management, business-wise, and is now hopelessly bankrupt and having to give up one of its main hobbies (impressing the rest of the world with the greatness of its military power).

But, on borrowed money, which nobody ever expected would ever have to be paid back, we had a lot of fun, porkbarreling for nice outlays for military overkill projects, from nuclear submarines to Tooth Fairy Star Wars ideas to benefits from nearness of military bases, not to mention occasional senseless wars to sustain public support.

So, now the money is gone and pretty soon the money being set aside for future social security payments and other needs will be gone, if almost exactly half of our great Congress succeeds in making the S.S. fund available for continuing the pretense of greatness through military posturing.

To prolong that worthy posturing hobby, and to give the appearance of doing something about the debt problem, we are going to close some bases to (we hope) save $1 billion per year. Meanwhile, not one person, either in the White House or the Senate or the House of Representatives has the fortitude or the patriotism to demand an end to the giveaway of $28 billion each year to the CIA.

LETTERS to the Editor

EDITOR, CV SUN

I would like to take this opportunity to announce my intention to run for the office of Monterey County Fifty District Supervisor. I intend to provide a pro-active approach to solving the problems that currently face Monterey County and the Fifth District.

As a Monterey Councilman and a member of several regional agencies, I believe I will provide a level of experience and understanding that is a critical ingredient in becoming a successful District Supervisor. As government attempts to deliver more services with fewer resources, an understanding of the concerns of the community will be essential.

Sincerely,
Dave Potter

Well, so much for patriotism and common sense in government.

During the 20 year period that Def. Sec. Perry says we'll be saving a total of $18 billion by closing bases, we'll be handing our CIA $560 billion and they won't even tell us what they do with it.

Whatever happened to the "democracy" idea?

COURTESY THOUGHTS FROM THE SUN

SHARING OUR BYWAYS & HIGHWAYS

There are precious few through roads in Carmel Valley, Pebble Beach, and the surrounding area. These roads carry precious cargo, people, supplies and services. The safe, courteous use of the roads is vital to our peaceful enjoyment of this very special part of the universe.

There are a few ways in which every one of us who uses these roads may contribute to the overall safety and smooth passage along our byways.

- Leave plenty of room between you and the car in front of you - avoid tailgating.
- Slow down when you are being passed by another car.
- Always be prepared and willing to surrender the "right of way."
- When you are able, stop and give assistance to disabled vehicles or lost tourists.
- Always slow to allow room for "turn-in" traffic from side roads and driveways.
- Slow drivers and sightseers are welcome. Slow drivers and sightseers should, however, pull onto the shoulder and stop to allow the easy passage of through traffic.
- Always think courtesy and cooperation when you drive these precious roads.

Every accident has much more than the direct human and physical damage. Every accident on our few through roads causes a major disruption for thousands of people and businesses. Use our precious roads with grace, concern and care.

FUN IN THE SUN

Community Dance to Benefit Valley Flood Victims. Hey all you water-logged, cabin-fever stricken, sick of this lousy weather campers out there in flood land, come shake off those late winter El Nino Blues at Hoofers, the valley's new spot for dancing and getting together with your friends and neighbors. The very first night of dancing will take place on Saturday, April 8th, from 8 p.m. til midnight, as the Community Center Hall on Ford Road is transformed into Hoofers Night Club.

This night of music and fun is presented by the good folks who brought you the wildly successful "Night at the Old Buckeye", and promises to be a Spring evening to remember. Most importantly, a portion of the proceeds from this event will be donated directly by the Community Center to Carmel Valley Flood Relief. There will be dancing to the music of the 60's, 70's and 80's, beer, wine, soft drinks and other refreshments will be available. Tickets are only $5 at the door. This is a fun and easy way to show support and do your part to help our friends in the Camp Steffani and Los Helechos areas. A separate benefit will be held soon to fix the food-damaged Post Office parking lot. Bring the gang and join us at Hoofers, Saturday the 8th at Community Hall.

Young Performers Workshop. The Community Center is very pleased to present a first of its kind, three month workshop for beginning, intermediate and advanced level students interested in the world of Theater Arts. This exciting new program will instruct students in basic acting fundamentals, movement, voice, stage etiquette and technical theater, with an emphasis on building self-esteem through a visual and movement orientated approach to the dramatic arts.

Classes will begin on April 3rd and will culminate in a full stage production of "Alice in Wonderland" at Hidden Valley Music Seminars the weekend of July 7th. Classes will be held at the Community Center Main Hall and class times are as follows: Ages 4-7: Mondays and Fridays 2-3 p.m.; ages 8-12: Mondays and Fridays 3-5 p.m.; ages 13-17: Tuesdays and Thursdays 5-7 p.m. Contact the Community Center at 659-3983 for complete class and fee information. This performing Arts Workshop is a wonderful way for your child to learn the language, discipline, and fundamental skills of theater in a "learning by doing" atmosphere.

Don't forget to pick up your copy of the all-new, never seen before, just can't put it down Community Center Spring Newsletter, now available in a post office box near you. Our first newsletter of the year contains info on everything from swim lessons and the pool schedule to Scuba Diving, the Fiesta 10K run, Community dances, programs and activities for kids and grown-ups of all ages. If you did not receive a copy by mail, you can pick one up at the CVCYC office on Ford Rd, at the Post Office, Sweet Retreat, Oak Deli, Randy's Market, Murphy's Lumber or the River Rock Cafe. Or call the CVCYC office and a copy will be sent to you.

Remember the Community pool will be opening on April 15th and now is the time to start thinking about swim lessons for the kids, recreational swim for the whole family, spring board diving classes and all those care-free summer days to come. Get those individual and family swim cards and passes now. Call 659-3983 for complete info.

SOME AGENTS HANDLE THE STEPS TO LISTING AND SELLING BETTER THAN OTHERS

Somebody once told me that psychologically, it takes 21 days for human beings to adjust to a new environment.

I don't know who discovered this, or how they were able to calculate it. But, so this dictum goes, after floundering around in fear and anxiety for 3 weeks, our adaptable species can accept just about anything.

Maybe part of it is some sort of resignation to the reality that you have just learned about a new environment that other people after you have and will discover. Maybe it takes three weeks to recognize that you've entered into "The Twilight Zone."

I have experienced in this field of psychology, because I sell houses. The houses I sell, coincidentally, have usually been someone's home. Until the time comes that they must sell. These homes have been a place people have been comfortable in.

When this time arrives, it is no longer a home. It becomes a storefront, housing some future owner's dream of what their home might be like. Would-be sellers need to contemplate this. They do this by "Getting Ready". When somebody is "getting ready" to put their home on the market, they are in a state of apprehension.

They know that their life's routine is about to be altered. Depending on their circumstances, their emotional state ranges as mild arrogance, ("We aren't in any real hurry - it's not like we HAVE to sell") to one of sheer helplessness ("We don't know what to do if it doesn't sell"), which can border on absolute panic.

As they step further into the unknown, they are hit with an event known as "The Signing". Whenever a person signs a listing contract to sell their home, they lose sleep. Perhaps the best gauge of a professional Real Estate agent is how they handle it. Some people need a lot of information before they sign. Some people need to be relaxed. Some people need to be commiserated with.

Some people need to be pushed. Yet even with the strongest resolve, "The Signing" is always a touchy moment. It's the acknowledgment of a commitment and the entrance to the passageway of change.

Further down this psychological hallway, sellers are confronted with "The Announcement." Normally this comes simultaneously with the installation of the For Sale sign.

As a real estate agent, installing a sign with my name on it, on someone else's property, is as close as it gets to conquering foreign lands. When I was a new agent, (okay confess even now) when I'm not feeling too perky, I might take a drive and look at my "for sale" and "sold" signs on properties around town. For me, as an agent, it's an ego trip, a measure of how successful I am.

For the seller, that sign is altogether different. It is nothing short of an intrusion. Because this dwelling has been your home, many memories will live there forever. Putting up a sign, therefore, is like an admission that you're willing to leave a part of your life behind. If you're moving to a "better place", does this mean you're leaving a "worse" place? If you are moving somewhere you would rather not, does this mean you'll never again enjoy the same quality of life?

A neighborhood is, after all, made of neighbors, not houses. So "The Announcement" is taken by others in various ways, too. Whether they admit it or not, neighbors get defensive. After all, you're leaving and they're staying; someone is doing the "right" thing.

So begins the next phase. "The Interviews." They start right away. At first the inquiries are accepted as friendly concerns. "Where are you moving?" "Is that what you really want?" "We'll miss you, by the way, what are you asking for it?" You answer freely, but soon you develop scripts. It doesn't take long before you don't want to answer anymore.

As this occurs, there is a good chance that a mild level of paranoia takes hold. And every day that the sign stays up, you feel like you're being somehow judged.

Enter "The Advisors". Is it your imagination, or are there suddenly a lot of people who now know a lot about you, or your situation, or the real estate market? For some reason, it is all that is discussed, anywhere. A guy down the street is overheard saying "you'll never get that much." There's an article in a magazine that gives a horrifying account of someone who has just done what you are about to do.

Someone sees an ad for your house and says "You're giving it away - not that they're interested, mind you". Everybody wants a detailed description of your next home, or an account of your plans.

Now you get "The Question". Every half hour, as you answer the phone, go to the store, at lunch, at work, at the cleaners, from the carwash guy, "Any bites yet?"

You don't want to, but you start "The Lie". "Oh there's actually a couple of people, but they're being transferred-arranging their financing, selling their house, working out the details," you say as you turn and walk away.

And without you even noticing, this is when it happens. You don't duck away from the window when people stop and take a flyer off the sign. You just watch them. At work, you realize that your underwear are lying on top of the clothes hamper but you don't race home.

You start to wake up late on Sunday morning again. You look at your calendar and you realize it's been about three weeks since you've seen your agent. So, is there anything happening out there? After all, your house is for sale, isn't it? and you don't want to get too used to it.

REAL ESTATE THOUGHTS

William Smith

WHAT IS ORGANIZED REAL ESTATE?

An important vote of the Monterey Peninsula, Carmel and Salinas Association of Realtors will take place this month to decide on a merger of these organizations. With a changing business climate on the peninsula, the cost effectiveness and efficiency of having three offices with three staffs has been reduced and redundant services have brought about this proposed consolidation measure.

Connie Traficanti, president of the Salinas Board of Realtors and broker of the Real Estate Center; Rinda Miller, Carmel Association of Realtors president and managing broker at the Mitchell Group; and Dick Stebbins from Harbor Real Estate and past president of Monterey Peninsula Board of Realtors recently answered Monterey County listeners' questions as guest of William L. Smith on his radio show, "Real Estate by Pacific Bay."

When asked the meaning of "organized real estate," Miller explained, "Organized real estate is an association of professional real estate people who adhere to a high professional code of ethics. When doing business with a Realtor® you will see a high degree of professionalism, promoting education, helping promote the professionalism of the industry and supporting a very large legislative advocacy program, to protect the property rights of homeowners and improve the life-styles of people who own property, our clients."

In response to a query as to whether everyone who has a real estate license is a Realtor®, Traficanti stated, "The term Realtor® is a professional trade association designation and symbolizes the distinction between a real estate licensee and a member of organized real estate. By agreeing to adopt and abide by the National Association of Realtors Code of Ethics, Realtor® members set themselves apart and above thousands of other real estate licensees who are outside of organized real estate and do not benefit from the strong positioning of a leadership organization. Being a Realtor® is a source of pride and prestige."

The merger of the three will mean cutting overhead for a more efficient staff, providing expanded services, and improving the professionalism of members, which has a direct effect on clients. It will mean expansion into the RE Info Link system, owned by over 14,000 members from San Jose to Carmel, providing a huge data bank of properties for sale in that entire region for agents, buyers and sellers. With the capital of the three organizations going into one central association, the services, technology and education of all will be enhanced.

At $64,000 the tax is $13,714 - 21.4% of income

At $115,000 the tax is $33,375 - 29.0% of income

At $230,000 the tax is $85,788 - 37.3 % of income

At $500,000 the tax is $223,915 - 44.8% of income

All five taxpaying couples face the same two financial challenges so clearly addressed by Charles Dickens: Keep expenses lower than income and arrange to make income last until death. My experience, if you can believe it, tells me those two challenges are equally severe in all five tax brackets...it is a problem of planning, not a problem of money. In that sense, we are all created equal. In the sense -or nonsense- of how much of our incomes we will give up to taxes this year, we do not share the pinch equally, at all.

And so, the debate. We have been listening, we know what is going on. Do we realize the whole world is tuned in? Sure, every time we change our money into a foreign currency.

Mark my words, global traders have a yen for those governments who pound down debt and meet obligations. Frankly, anything less no longer makes cents for them.

Environmental Impact Report, land acquisition, district administration, "escalation" costs or interest on the bonds.

In regular business, the MPWMD approved the consent calendar with the exception of Director Lou Haddad who opposed 3 items. Director Haddad opposed amending the contract with Alley and Associated from $15,000 to $72,000 for Steelhead studies. Director Haddad also opposed spending $65,300 for a septic system, office space and an electrical system at the Sleepy Hollow Steelhead Rearing Facility and $35,00 to repair irrigation systems damaged during the flood as he believes the MPWMD should not consider spending this money until the PNLDP is voted on.

At the request of the Carmel Valley Property Owners, the MPWMD agreed to look into whether the approximately 16 acre feet of water used by Mr. Gamboa at Carmel Greens in 1994 represented water waste or beneficial water use for growing agriculture. MPWMD staff could not recover the necessary records of water use and agricultural activities to make an evaluation of 1994 but recommended that they require additional information for 1995 water use. The well owner, Mr. Gamboa, will be required to provide information on what crops are planted, planting dates, description of soil leaching practices, harvesting dates and sales records for 1995.

The next MPWMD meeting will be on April 17 at 7:30 at the Monterey City Council Chambers; the meeting is open to the public.

cies Act are invoked, greatly restricting the amount of water allowed to be diverted from these sensitive fish habitats.

Mr. Risner said the final factor which will decimate California's water supply is the likelihood of a major earthquake. Through farming around the Sacramento

Delta area, the soil has been depleted to the point that much of this land is now 10-28 feet below sea level. The sea water is held back through miles of poorly constructed levies which will easily come down in a major earthquake causing the ocean to rush in, expanding the San Francisco Bay to Stockton and possibly Sacramento, bringing a new meaning to saltwater intrusion. The aqueduct which carries water to Los Angeles is bisected at several points by faults, making it likely that Los Angeles' water supply will be disrupted after a large seismic event. Mr. Risner said that the leading seismologists agree that this scenario is "not likely, but inevitable".

To help solve California's water problems, Mr. Risner suggested increasing the use of water reclamation and perhaps building many small water projects and off-site storage facilities. More importantly, Mr. Risner said that instituting "water capitalism" to agricultural water use and sale will go far in water savings. Currently, California water costs anywhere between $3.50 and $1,080 per acre foot. Agriculture accounts for 80% of California's water consumption, yet agriculture receives tremendous subsidies. Mr. Risner proposes phasing in more realistic water pricing. Another facet of "water capitalism" would be to reduce restrictions on inter-basin selling and/or trading of water.

When asked the inevitable question of his opinion of the proposed New Los Padres Dam, Mr. Risner responded that we should "not believe it will be as cheap as they say" and "not believe it will produce as much water as they say". Mr. Risner said the only dam ever to come in at budget was the Hoover Dam which was completed in 1936.
